Dear Pastor Anderson,

Although I have been away from Tallahassee for some years except for short periods during the summer, I still consider it as my home. The times and the friends that I had there have never been forgotten, so you can see why I have enjoyed your bulletin so much the last few months. Here's hoping that I will continue to be included in your mailing list as long as it's published.

For the last six months I've been attached to a Construction Battalion (CB) in the Navy as Battalion dental officer. We have had embarkation orders for the last four months, but are still in the country. The last three months we have been here at Quoddy, Maine reconstructing and repairing an old camp for the Navy.

Quoddy is only three miles from Eastport, the most Eastern city in the United States. It is the site of what was to have been the Passamaquoddy Dam. The dam was planned to harness the ~~low~~ tides up here, which reach heights of 30 feet, but was never completed. The country is very beautiful, but I'm afraid the weather may be hard on these two Floridians. We have already had two heavy snows and Florida's yearly quota of cold weather.

My wife has been with me ever since I came up and is staying in Eastport. She joins me in wishing "lots of luck" to you in Tallahassee.

Most cordially yours,
Cameron McDavid
