

TRINITY METHODIST CHURCH

JACK ANDERSON, PASTOR

TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA

August ~~10~~, 1941

15,

Mr. Charles E. Wells,
Tallahassee, Florida.

Dear Mr. Wells:

Since you have been away at Camp I am sure you have learned the meaning of the phrase "When a fellow needs a friend," and you have found that one of these times is when he gets away from home.

However lonesome you may get at times there are certain advantages in getting in a new situation. For one thing a man can look back at his former life and evaluate it. Then too, he can make certain changes for the better which he has long thought about doing but had never taken the time.

None of us likes the idea of being pulled up by the roots. Yet when life forces this upon us we must make the best of it. None of you boys will come back home the same as you were. I trust, however that for you personally, your return to Tallahassee will find you a stronger and better man.

In regards to the church I do trust that you will have a deeper regard for its place in community life, and that we may learn how to serve you better while you are in camp now, and on your return.

As Pastor of the Church I send you greetings from those who know you best and are therefore more concerned about your welfare. If I can render you any service now or in the future, do not fail to call upon me.

Fraternally yours,

Jack Anderson, Pastor
